Questions for the table

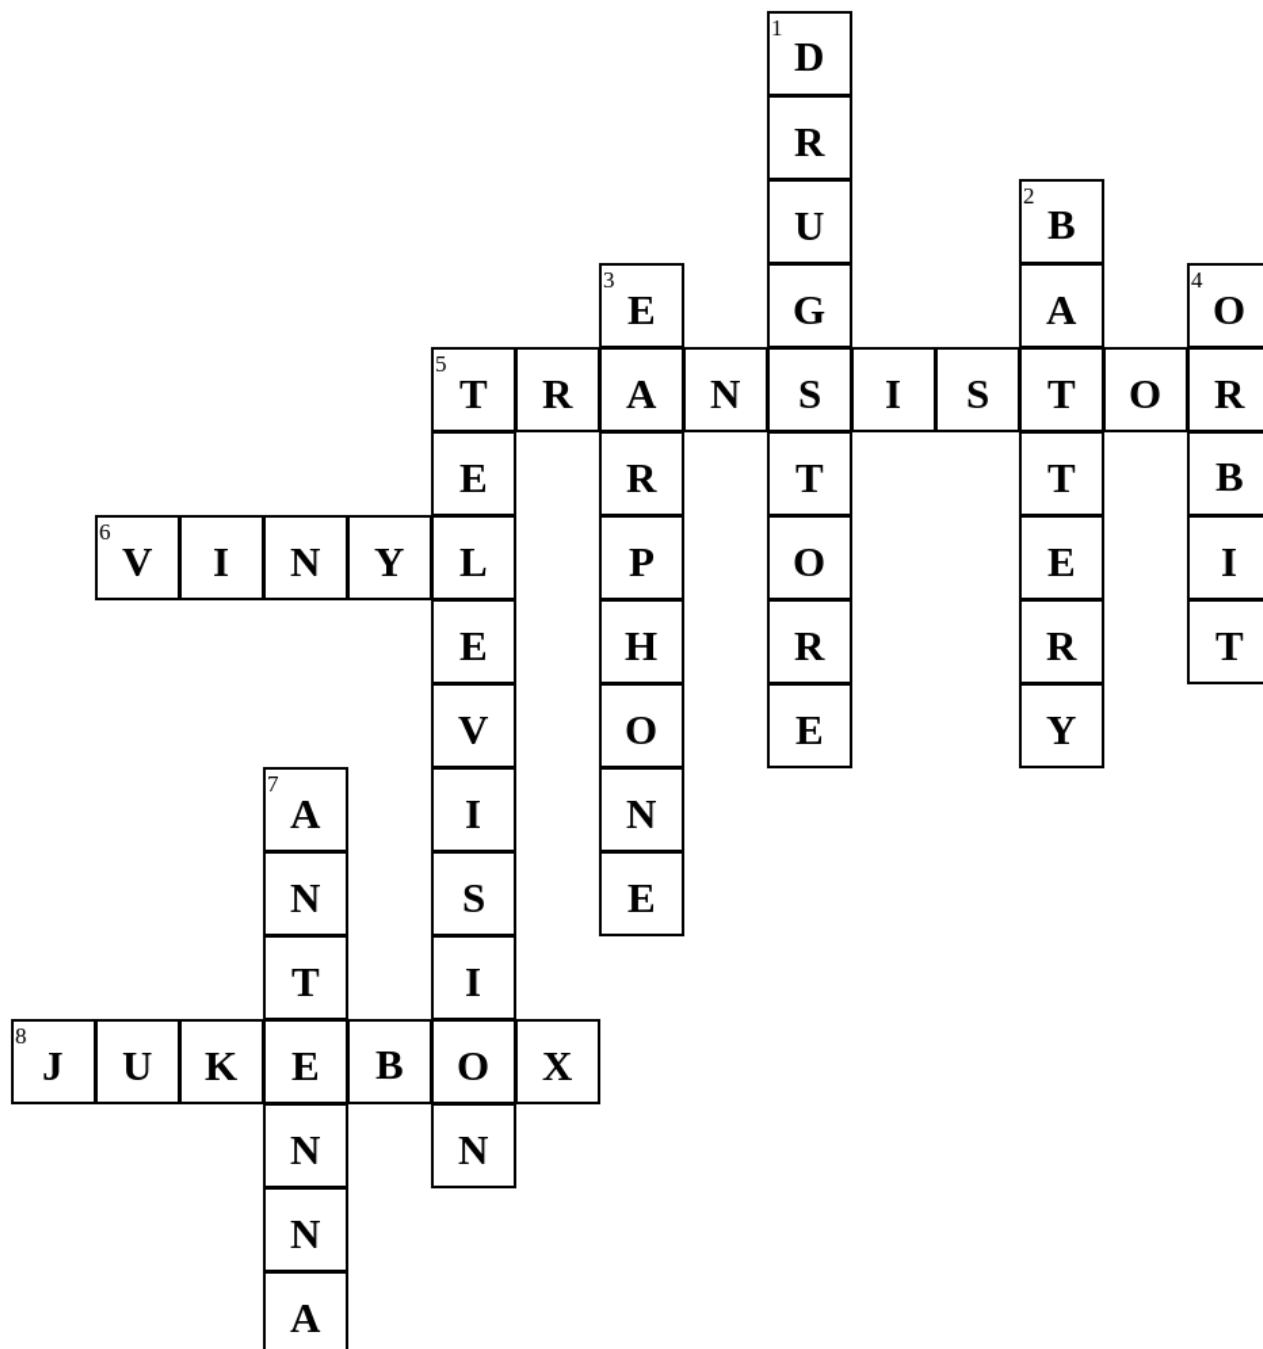

Read one aloud and wait. The stories come out on their own.

1. What was the first thing you owned that nobody else in the house could use?
2. Which song can you still sing every word of, without meaning to?
3. What was on the television the night everyone stopped talking?
4. Who taught you to drive, and how did that go?
5. What did a good Saturday look like when you were twelve?
6. Which piece of the house had a smell you could find again today?
7. What did you save up for the longest?
8. What is something everyone had then that nobody has now?
